Guild Hall,
Caernarvon,

3rd. February, 1940.

To the Port Sanitary Authority,
CAERNARVON.

Gentlemen,

I have the honour to submit to you my annual report for the year ending December 31st. 1939.

Two vessels from foreign parts arrived with timber. None of these had a history of disease occuring during the voyage, and the crew were in good health on arrival. No serious defects were found and the quarters clean on the whole.

Examinations and inquiries were made in each case to ascertain the existence of rats, but no occasion for treatment was found necessary.

FOOD.

No meat or foreign food was imported. The oyster beds on the Anglesey side were discontinued and the beds remains suitable for further use should occasion arise. They are very suitable for this purpose being free from the danger of pollution. Irish potatoes were imported on four occasions during the year.

INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

No case was notified.

HOSPITAL.

The Port Sanitary hospital is ready for any emergency.

COASTWISE TRADE.

All this trade is now carried on between Liverpool, London and Milford Port.

NUISANCES.

These were dealt with and consisted mainly of dead animals on the foreshore.

I am, Gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

W. Thos. Parry.

GUILD HALL,

CAERNARVON.

3rd February, 1940.

Dr. W. Hilton Parry,
Medical Officer of Health,
Caernarvon Port Sanitary Authority,
Caernarvon.

Dear Sir,

I herewith beg to enclose particulars of inspections and visits for the year ended December 31st. 1939.

No Statutory Notices were issued, and none found necessary, the conditions being fairly well, excepting in three cases where quarters were not in a very tidy and clean condition.

Nuisances were dealt with on eight occasions, being dead animals on the foreshore, these were immediately removed and disposed of.

Yours obediently,

(Sgd.) Robert Roberts.

Sanitary Inspector.
